

Safran Aerospace Museum plays host to fencing tournament!

On Friday March 30, 2018 at 7pm, the Safran Aerospace Museum will play host to fencing tournament showcasing the best French fencers and their rivals from across the globe...

After going up against Russia last year, the French mixed fencing team is preparing for a new challenge by going head to head with the best fencers in the world on Friday March 30 at 7pm at a fencing tournament being hosted by the Safran Aerospace Museum in Réau.

Two mixed teams are battling it out this year as part of a new tournament structure: on the one side, the two best female fencers and the two best male fencers in France, and on the other, the two best female fencers and the two best male fencers in the world.

Team France will be made up of Astrid Guyart – who is also an engineer at ArianeGroup – and Pauline Ranvier, as well as Enzo Lefort and Erwann Le Pechoux, the quadruple world champion and team Olympic silver medalist.

They will be going up against the Russian Inna Deriglazova, Rio 2016 Olympic champion and twice defending world champion, the Tunisian Inès Boubakri, bronze medalist at the Rio Olympics and multiple champion of Africa, the Russian Dmitry Zherebchenko, defending world champion and the Japanese Toshiya Saito, world championship silver medalist.

Learn more

Free admission

Important: given the popularity of last year's event, we advise spectators to arrive on time!

Musée aéronautique et spatial Safran

Rond-point René Ravaud

77550 Réau - France